1. Avia Aircraft Factory is in Wokonitz-Praha. It now has 600 workers, producing training and sports planes according to Soviet methods. Thirty percent of the production is exported to the Soviet Union, 40 percent remains in Czechoslovakia, and the remainder goes to other people's democracies.
2. Before World War II there was a jewel and precision machine factory in Jablonec. It was seized after World War II, and has been turned into an airplane engine factory. The work of reconstruction is still incomplete. There are 600 civilian workers and a battalion of compulsory workers. The factory is under the Motorlet state trust, which is headed by General Director Pavlicek, formerly head of the Letov Airplane Factory.
